

PRELIMINARY PROGRAM

The upcoming conference is themed the “Intersection of Planning and Politics”. This theme gets to the core of the CPAA’s reason for being: bringing together planners, administrators and politicians from throughout Alberta, so that each might better appreciate and understand the others knowledge, priorities and perspectives. The conference creates a space for planners, administrators and politicians to explore how planning can help influence, shape and enhance our communities and municipalities. Join us!

Building Your Strengths for a Better Tomorrow

Wayne Caldwell
*School of Environmental
Design and Rural Development University of Guelph*

While some rural and small town communities are prospering and growing, others face challenging economic circumstances and even decline. For all communities, however there are promising practices that can help to make a difference. This interactive session will focus on key trends impacting rural and small town communities and will offer suggestions for a successful strategy moving forward.

Wayne Caldwell is a Professor in Rural Planning in the School of Environmental Design and Rural Development at the University of Guelph. His interests include planning for agriculture and rural communities, community economic development, healthy rural communities, and community-based approaches to economic and environmental issues. He has served as President of the Ontario Professional Planners Institute as well as Chair or President of a number of local, provincial and national organizations.
